

HELIUS MEDIATRaining TOTAL ACCESS

HELIUS MEDIATRaining TOTAL ACCESS OVERVIEW

Helius MediaTraining Total Access software provides simple direct access to video training content by an individual on any hardware and software platform. Utilizing the power of the Macromedia/Adobe Flash environment and the popularity of the Flash player, MediaTraining Total Access delivers the ability to watch video at any location within a corporate network.

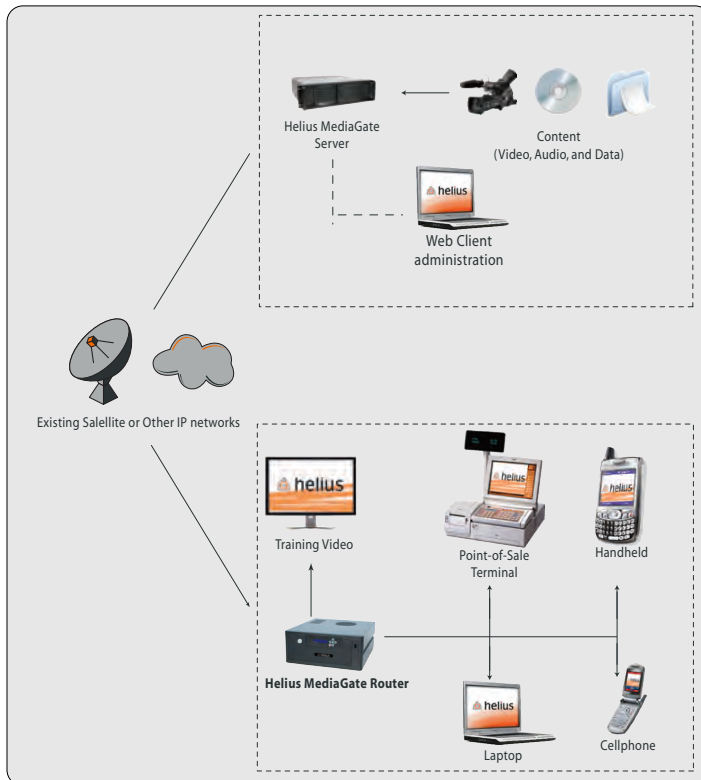

MediaTraining Total Access is an extension of the popular Helius MediaTraining software pack. Utilizing these two products jointly, corporations can deploy a fully functional video training network where individuals can receive training and other corporate communications through the Total Access interface on a laptop, desktop computer, handheld device, point of sale terminal or at any other device supporting the Flash plug-in.

> CUSTOMER REQUIREMENT

Organizations have constant need of quality training for their employees. Companies may have high employee turnover and new hires need to be trained quickly and thoroughly. Also, many companies are legally bound to train and certify their employees on a continual basis. Whatever the training required, current methods of training are costly to update and distribute. They also provide little in the way of reporting and verification of completion for management to review. Because of the high cost of traditional training methods, training often only happens once.

> HELIUS SOLUTION

Helius MediaTraining Total Access provides the ability to distribute training materials within a specific location. Employees simply log into the organization's training network powered by Helius MediaTraining through the Total Access interface. This interface is available to any hardware/software device with the Flash plug-in. Training materials are then available for the employee to watch on demand. MediaTraining activity information is automatically collected and transmitted for report generation
